"What Color Is Your Scarf?" depicts life in the 'gay lane' as experienced by a 40-something man discovering himself rather late in life. This entertaining odyssey provides humor, insight and encouragement to those who have either gone through the process of identity discovery or who may be at the beginning of their extraordinary journey. Though not unique, the universality of the author's experiences offers the reader with little or no exposure to this subject the opportunity to gain an understanding of what gay friends, colleagues and family members endured on the road to self-discovery.
