For Alice, Tess and Carla, their mission to the edge of the solar system was to be a milestone in human history, and a way for each of them to realise their dreams and aspirations. But when the experimental ship they are piloting malfunctions, they are sent deep into the heart of another galaxy, a section of space filled with exotic aliens, all with a little something extra between their legs.

When they dock with a huge space station in the heart of Futa Space, the three astronauts are excited to see more aliens. But what they don't expect is the odd effect a strange alien drink will have on their bodies. Soon, they are getting a much closer encounter with a four-armed alien woman than they expect, and their excursion soon turns far more pleasurable than any of them had thought.

For a glance at what lies ahead for the three eager explorers, take a quick peak at the look inside.
