In St. Louis in the 1850s, citizens were tiring of the crowded and unhealthy conditions of urban living, but there were few convenient alternatives for those who worked in the city. When the Pacific Railroad decided to build a line through an outlying area then known as Collins Station, Hiram Leffingwell and Richard Elliott seized an opportunity and bought the surrounding land. Using Leffingwells experience in planning additions to the city, he and Elliott developed the first planned suburban community west of the Mississippi River. The area was named Kirkwood after the chief engineer for the Pacific Railroad, James Kirkwood, who chose the railroads route. Kirkwood officially incorporated in 1865. Today, it is still referred to as the Queen of the Suburbs for its housing stock, convenient transportation, shopping, and excellent schools.

Marge Lee:

As a scholar exactly feel bored for you to reading. If their teacher inquired them to go to the library or to make summary for some publication, they are complained. Just small students that has reading's heart and soul or real their pastime. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to the library. They go to presently there but nothing reading really. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring as well as can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is to get complicated. Book is very important for you. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Kirkwood (Images of America) can make you really feel more interested to read.
