Faith In All Its Splendor Charles Haddon Spurgeon

Charles Haddon Spurgeon (1834-1892) earned the title, "The Prince of Preachers" by his untiring pulpit work which produced many thousands of sermons in his 40+ years of preaching. But he was more than a preacher, though one among ten thousand, he also founded a preacher's college, operated a colportage service giving out books and tracts, encouraged street preaching, and authored many books beyond his books of sermons. This fine collection of Spurgeon's sermons on faith has twelve different sermons, variously displaying various kinds of faith. Sermon 1: Little Faith. Some born-again Christians have little, or weak, faith. Spurgeon points out first that it is a burden to have but little faith. Though Little-faith is quite sure of Heaven, Yet he suffers from lack of assurance. Unlike normal faith, it does not grow steadily from faith to faith. He quotes Bunyan as saying that one of little faith has a host of fears. "It has more lives than a cat," if you kill it over and over, it still lives. He is always safe, but he seldom knows it. Sermon 2: Here the reader is instructed in "Seeing Jesus," by faith. Faith is the eye of the soul. It alone will be "looking unto Jesus." Seeing Jesus is a continuous thing with faith. It is not just a now and then thing. It is current, not future. It never completely loses sight of the Savior as long as it is exercised. He is everywhere, therefore we can see Him everywhere we are, or where we go. Sermon 3: The difference between little faith and great faith is not such a great gulf as that between little faith and no faith. At times Jesus called the apostles "Little faiths" (Matt. 8:26; 16:8; Luke 12:28). Peter had faith to walk on the water until he looked at the wind instead of Jesus. Faith is never in danger as long as it has its eye on Jesus. Sermon 4: Faith is essential to please God. (Heb. 11:6). No invention of men can please God without faith. If God is pleased to give us everlasting life, it should be the object
